Introduction

IN this collection of songs for Junior boys and girls we have constantly kept a number of things in mind. We have sincerely tried to select only those songs which meet the following tests:

1. Are the words good; have they literary value?
2. Have the words spiritual value?
3. Can Junior boys and girls mean the words?
4. Is the music good?
5. Do the words suit the music?
6. Will Junior boys and girls like this song?

These tests have been rather severe on some of the jingly songs which some boys and girls like, for we only put the last test to the song after it had met the other five.

The tests were equally severe on some of the songs and hymns which mean a great deal to adults. The omission of these hymns does not mean that the compiler does not value them. It only means that while Juniors store up a great deal for the future they do this along the line of their experiences in the present and many of our old church hymns will have a richer significance if introduced later.

In all honesty we are compelled to admit that some of the songs which, from our standpoint, have passed all the tests except the last, will not at first pass this test if the boys and girls have been fed in the past on a cheap type of music.

We recognize also that the method of introducing a song often has as much to do with the enjoyment of those who sing it as has the song itself. Therefore we have included some which depend at least in a degree on this introduction.

In addition to a recognition of the restrictions listed above we recognize the need for an inexpensive Junior hymnal. We have many wealthy schools who can purchase a variety of expensive books but we have also many schools that cannot afford this and the request is often voiced, "Give us one book that will contain enough songs for use in the various Church School sessions—Sunday, week-day and vacation sessions and Junior societies."

Our teachers will be glad to see many old favorites from the church hymnals and other sources, and will welcome the new songs which we have had specially prepared for this book.

Old Hundredth L. M.

Interpretation of the Twenty-fourth Psalm

THERE is no one way of picturing the 24th Psalm as scholars differ in their interpretations. Before giving directions as to how it should be sung we consulted Dr. Edward Mack, whose interpretations of the Psalms have helped hundreds of students. He drew for us a word picture somewhat as follows:

For some time the ark of God had rested outside the city of Jerusalem in the house of Obed Edom. The time came when King David decided to bring it into the city. He, with the Levites and a few chosen men, went to escort the ark with joyful and reverent ceremony as it was brought through the gates of the city.

There had been great preparation for this event. Two choirs had been specially trained to sing. These choirs were stationed one in the high tower to the right and the other in the tower to the left of the gates. All the people assembled inside the gates. Verses 1 through 6 picture the preparation for the reception of the ark that was approaching the gates. The choirs sang antiphonally. It is possible that one solo voice asked the question:

"Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord,
Or who shall stand in His holy place?"

When David and the Levites and a special escort reached the gates of the city as was the custom a spokesman called out, "Lift up your head O ye gates and be ye lift up ye everlasting doors and the king of glory shall come in."

From inside the gates either a solo voice or both choirs challenged

"Who is this king of glory?"

The answer came back from the whole group outside the gates—

"The Lord, strong and mighty;
The Lord mighty in battle."

Again the stirring "Lift up your heads," etc., was sung—this time certainly by all those outside the gates.

The challenge came again, but the answer was a triumphant climax in which everybody joined. The song thus ended in a burst of triumph.

"The Lord of hosts
He is the king of glory."

Do not think of using the musical arrangement on the opposite page without giving the real picture to the boys and girls. It may be desirable to designate boys to one "tower" and girls to the other or a mixed group in each will sometimes bring better results. If there are no good solo voices, have a group sing solo parts. It will be wise to change assignments from time to time that all may become familiar with each section of the song.

The First Thanksgiving in America

WE are so accustomed in our country to recognize the right of men and women and boys and girls to worship God as each desires that it is hard for us to realize that three hundred years ago, in the countries beyond the seas our ancestors were expected to worship in the church chosen by their king, and they were persecuted if they insisted on being allowed freedom to choose their own church and own way of worshiping.

In England some of the people wanted a simple church service,—different from the service of the English church as it then was. These people were called Puritans and some of them who insisted on holding services of their own were called Separatists. They were not allowed to hold separate services and some were put into prison.

Of course this drove many of them out of their country. First they settled in Holland, but after awhile they felt unhappy and restless. Finally a company of the Puritans decided to sail for America, the new land that was just beginning to be settled. "There," they said, "we will have freedom to worship God as we desire." So in the year 1620 they left Holland in a ship called "The Speedwell," stopped on their way to join "The Mayflower," in which some of their friends in England were embarking. As they started for America "The Speedwell" was found to be leaking, so "The Mayflower" was crowded with one hundred passengers and set out on a long voyage.

After many weeks, "The Mayflower" landed in November, on the rocky coast of what is now known as Massachusetts. The place of landing was called Plymouth.

The winter that followed was colder than the Puritan Pilgrims had ever known. They suffered keenly from cold and hunger and other hardships. When the time came in the spring to plant their crops, the seed was planted and eagerly the first green shoots were welcomed.

By and by when autumn came and the harvests were gathered in, a day of Thanksgiving was proclaimed by the governor, and the hearts of the Puritans were truly grateful as prayers went up to God in thanksgiving for food, but most of all for freedom.

The Old Garden

By Nancy Byrd Turner

'Twas in an old garden
  Upon an old hill
That they buried the Saviour
  When twilight was chill.

The flowers were sleeping,
  The treetops were cold;
It was cheerless and gray
  In that garden of old.

But when midnight was over
  And darkness had fled,
At the breaking of dawn
  Christ arose from the dead.

O the sunlight was fair
  On the hillside, like gold,
That first Easter day
  In that garden of old.

Marching With the Heroes

(MAY BE SUNG TO ABOVE TUNE OR TO NO. 80.)

Marching with the heroes, comrades of the strong,
Lift we hearts and voices as we march along;
O the joyful music all in chorus raise!
Theirs the song of triumph, ours the song of praise.
Marching with the heroes, comrades of the strong,
Lift we hearts and voices as we march along.

Glory to the heroes, who in days of old
Trod the path of duty, faithful, wise and bold,
For the right unflinching, strong the weak to save,
Warriors all and freemen fighting for the slave.
Glory to the heroes, who in days of old
Trod the path of duty, faithful, wise and bold.

So we sing the story of the brave and true,
Till among the heroes we are heroes too;
Loyal to our Captain like the men of yore,
Marching with the heroes onward evermore.
O the joyful music all in chorus raise!
Theirs the song of triumph, ours the song of praise.

Arranged from Rev. William G. Tarrant, 1853.

WISE MEN: Where is he that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen his star in the east and are come to worship him.

HEROD: What is this I hear about a new king? Tell me, priests and scribes, do you know where the Christ is to be born?

CHIEF PRIESTS AND SCRIBES: In Bethlehem of Judaea; for thus it is written by the prophet, And thou, Bethlehem, in the land of Juda, art not the least among the princes of Juda; for out of thee shall come a Governor, that shall rule my people Israel.

HEROD: Go then to Bethlehem and search diligently for the young child, and when ye have found him, bring me word again, that I may come and worship him also.

HERALD: When they had heard the king, they departed.

WISE MEN: And lo, the star which we saw in the east went before us till it came and stood over where the young child was. PROGRAM No. 6

The Resurrection

NOTE.—In planning this program, we are taking it for granted that the first song has been used by the department frequently, and so is familiar. No. 72 is perhaps new, and so to avoid teaching too much new material to the whole department a group of good singers may meet for a number of days ahead of time and thoroughly master it. It should be sung by them with the understanding that they are making a real contribution to the joy of the whole department as they celebrate Christ's resurrection. No. 71 may also be new. However, as it is sung to the familiar tune "Lead On, O King Eternal," the words may be given to each boy and girl at least a week ahead of time that they may take them home in order that they may think them through.

Hymn: "The Earth is Hushed in Silence"—No. 107.

Prayer.

Poem: "The Old Garden," on page opposite No. 67. (Read or recited by a Junior girl.)

Song: "Rejoice for the Lord is Risen"—No. 72. (Sung by a small group selected from the department.)

Scripture: Mark 16:1-7. (Recited from memory by a class.)

Song: "The Day of Resurrection"—No. 71. (Sung by department.)

Appreciation of God, the Creator

NOTE.—The value of the following service will depend upon the reverence with which the creation story is handled, and the spirit with which the response from John 1:3 is sung. A selected Junior choir should learn this response in advance and lead the department.

There may be certain Junior departments who are able to read with happy results the Bible passages picturing each day of creation. Perhaps most boys and girls will enjoy the story more if this is varied. A good plan will be to assign to each of seven classes (or selected groups in the department) the responsibility of telling of one of the days of creation in any way they prefer. The only exception to this should be the first and last days, which should be recited or read in the actual Bible words, as this will insure a certain quiet thoughtfulness which should be a part of the program. Some groups may enjoy presenting their information in the form of a class poster . Anything which will contribute to real appreciation of God's creations is desirable. A large part of the Bible passage is printed as a help in working out the program.

Music: "Largo"—No. 116.

Scripture:

In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth.

And the earth was without form, and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters.

And God said, Let there be light: and there was light.

And God saw the light, that it was good; and God divided the light from the darkness.

And God called the light Day, and the darkness he called Night. And the evening and the morning were the first day.

Song Response: "All Things Were Made By Him"—No. 113.

"All Things were made by Him;
And without Him was not anything made that was made."

Scripture:

And God said, Let there be a firmament in the midst of the waters, and let it divide the waters from the waters.

And God made the firmament, and divided the waters which were under the firmament from the waters which were above the firmament: and it was so.

And God called the firmament Heaven. And the evening and the morning were the second day.

Song Response:

"All Things were made by Him;
And without Him was not anything made that was made."

Scripture:

And God said, Let the waters under the heaven be gathered together unto one place, and let the dry land appear: and it was so.

And God called the dry land Earth; and the gathering together of the waters called he Seas: and God saw that it was good.

And God said, Let the earth bring forth grass, the herb yielding seed, and the fruit tree yielding fruit after his kind, whose seed is in itself, upon the earth: and it was so.

And the earth brought forth grass, and herb yielding seed after his kind, and the tree yielding fruit, whose seed was in itself, after his kind: and God saw that it was good.

And the evening and the morning were the third day.

Song Response:

"All Things were made by Him;
And without Him was not anything made that was made."

Scripture:

And God said, Let there be lights in the firmament of the heaven to divide the day from the night; and let them be for signs, and for seasons, and for days, and years:

And let them be for lights in the firmament of the heaven to give light upon the earth: and it was so.

And God made two great lights; the greater light to rule the day, and the lesser light to rule the night: he made the stars also.

And God set them in the firmament of the heaven to give light upon the earth.

And to rule over the day and over the night, and to divide the light from the darkness; and God saw that it was good.

And the evening and the morning were the fourth day.

Song Response:

"All Things were made by Him;
And without Him was not anything made that was made."

Scripture:

And God said, Let the waters bring forth abundantly the moving creature that hath life, and fowl that may fly above the earth in the open firmament of heaven.

And God created great whales, and every living creature that moveth, which the waters brought forth abundantly, after their kind, and every winged fowl after his kind: and God saw that it was good.

And the evening and the morning were the fifth day.

Song Response:

"All Things were made by Him;
And without Him was not anything made that was made."

Scripture:

And God said, Let the earth bring forth the living creature after his kind, cattle, and creeping thing, and beast of the earth after his kind: and it was so.

And God made the beast of the earth after his kind, and cattle after their kind, and every thing that creepeth upon the earth after his kind: and God saw that it was good.

And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness; and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth.

So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them.

And God blessed them, and God said unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it; and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that moveth upon the earth.

And God saw every thing that he had made, and, behold, it was very good. And the evening and the morning were the sixth day.

Song Response:

"All Things were made by Him;
And without Him was not anything made that was made."

Scripture:

Thus the heavens and the earth were finished, and all the host of them.

And on the seventh day God ended his work which he had made; and he rested on the seventh day from all his work which he had made.

And God blessed the seventh day, and sanctified it: because that in it he had rested from all his work which God created and made.

Song: "Hail to the Great Creator!"—No. 16.

Song: "True Hearted, Whole Hearted"—No. 82.

Short Discussion: (Leader may introduce the thought of dependability by use of the following incident: John was told by his father that a certain bit of gardening should be done before night, and that he would be kept late at the office. John cheerfully promised to do the piece of work after school, and he came home and began the work in good spirits. His friend Tom, who lived in the next block, came along with two tickets to the circus and invited John to join him. There was no one at home but John. What should he have done? What would you do?)

LEADER: God has given to us so many blessings that we are glad He said to Moses in the days of old, "Take ye up an offering from among you." It is one of the ways we have of showing our appreciation of His gifts. He has entrusted to His people much wealth, and of this He asks that we give back to Him and His Church's work a portion. May we be true to the trust in the use of the money that is ours."

Birthday Song.

We bring you greetings on this day
That celebrates your birth
And pray that God may honor you
With many more on earth;
And may each birthday bring to you
New courage with the sun
And strength to do your Master's will
'Til all your days be done.
